

CONSULTANT (M/F/X) TRENDS AND TECHNOLOGY RESEARCH IN KEMPTEN

YOUR TASKS

- Evaluation of new technologies and trends and development of ideas and innovations for the various business areas of a globally active logistics service provider as a member of the central Research & Development department
- Support and management of a wide range of research and innovation projects throughout the company organization
- Cooperation with external partners and scientific institutions
- Knowledge broker and consultant for our departments and branches on the topics of innovation management, trends, technologies and digitalization

YOUR QUALIFICATIONS

- Completed university studies in the field of computer science, business administration or engineering as well as at least two years of professional experience
- Enthusiasm to familiarize oneself with new and unknown topics, to share knowledge and findings in a team, but also to work on and advance topics independently.
- Strong analytical skills to quickly penetrate new issues and problems and identify relevant leverage points.
- Creating presentations, preparing and communicating complex issues in English
- Strong communication skills and assertiveness

OUR OFFER

- Possibility of mobile working, modern, hybrid working environment and flexible working hours (flextime, working time account)
- Sustainable, growing family business, diverse tasks in one of the industries of the future
- Comprehensive onboarding program and career planning (DACHSER Academy)
- Fitness and sports offers, own health management
- Modern company campus with its own company restaurant and coffee bar as well as parking garage with e-charging infrastructure